IT'S PERSONAL

As the father of two sons, Assemblyman Jeffries knows how important education is to our developing youth and the future of our nation.

- Assemblyman Jeffries led the fight to oust school Chancellor Cathie Black – filing the law suit challenging her credentials.
- Hakeem fought to dedicate over $800 million in funding to our public schools.
- Hakeem led the fight to end school closures, sponsoring legislation creating a one-year moratorium.
- In Congress, Hakeem will fight for smaller class size, universal Pre-K and incentives to attract the best teachers.
- Hakeem will continue to fight for computers in every classroom ensuring that our children are prepared for careers in the 21st century.

Dear Neighbor,

As we work together to bring Queens back from the crisis of the last two years, we already know our borough will be back and better than ever.

We said “let’s get to work” and we did! In just 150 days we opened new parks, funded hospitals, broke ground on thousands of units of real affordable housing, and worked to heal the wounds of hate that have been inflicted on so many of our communities.

We’ve hit the ground running to build that better future for all of us. Let’s get to work!

"I am proud to have worked alongside my partners in government to deliver toll relief for Staten Island residents and businesses. As your State Senator, I will continue to be an independent voice for the working men and women of our district."

AS YOUR STATE SENATOR DIANE SAVINO HAS:

- Fought to reduce tolls for Staten Island residents on the Verrazano-Narrows bridge.
- Supported an on-time budget, that included an additional $1.1 billion in education funding for initiatives like free Universal Pre-Kindergarten and expanded after school programs.
- Made cost of living affordable by advocating for adjustments to income eligibility levels to allow more seniors and families to qualify for relief through the EPIC and SCRE programs.
- Protected renters by supporting the greatest strengthening of our state's rent laws in over 40 years.

THERE IS NO COMMUNITY QUITE LIKE PONTIAC'S.
We need to ensure this community has every opportunity to shine. Proposal 1 gives us the ability to make medical cannabis work for us.

- > Proposal 1 would allow Pontiac to build medical cannabis facilities on vacant lots that can increase revenue for the entire city, which we can use for projects like building new recreation centers
- > These new recreation centers can help build healthy habits for our children, increase safety within our community, and create a Pontiac we can be proud of

FAMILIES IN PONTIAC ARE BURDENED WITH HIGH UNEMPLOYMENT.
A YES vote on Proposal 1 can bring our community thousands of new jobs so we can all support our families.

- > Proposal 1 would allow 20 medical cannabis provision centers to be built right here in Pontiac, bringing new, well paying jobs to our community
- > Pontiac is full of skilled workers who would benefit greatly from jobs that arise from having to build and run these new medical cannabis facilities

- Secured $1 million for the proven Cure Violence program in the 69th and 70th precincts
- Successfully fought for full restoration of summer youth employment (SYEP)
- Chair of the Mental Health Committee, where she secured $25 million for mobile crisis units citywide
- Made long-term investments to prevent future violence – millions for our schools, youth programs, justice-involved youth, and mental health care in our district

IN HER SECOND TERM, COUNCIL MEMBER LOUIS WILL CONTINUE THESE INVESTMENTS AND FOCUS ON:

PREVENTION:

- Get guns off the streets by increasing buybacks to $1000+ per weapon
- New long-term investments in the community, including new youth programs, a new community center in East Flatbush, and more proven anti-violence programs

INTERVENTION:

- Laser-focus on a data-driven approach, not over-policing
- Allocate funding and officers to get weapons off the street

CRIMINAL JUSTICE REFORM:

- Strengthen the Civilian Complaint Review Board's ability to hold officers accountable for misconduct

New York City Primary Care Safety Net Access Project

The Primary Care Development Corporation (PCDC) requests $500,000 in citywide funding from the New York City Council in FY '15 to help safety net primary care providers increase access to healthcare in low-income communities.

26

Communities in all five boroughs are designated as federal "Primary Care Shortage Areas"

The Challenge

New York City has a primary care shortage: Fully 26 communities in all five boroughs are designated as federal "Primary Care Shortage Areas," where the number of providers is insufficient to serve the number of patients in need. The need is exacerbated in areas where hospitals are under financial distress (i.e., Brooklyn).

Demand for primary care is increasing: The Affordable Care Act is substantially increasing the number of people covered by private health insurance and Medicaid. This will put significant pressure on an already overburdened primary care system. Many experts predict that this will lead to diminished access to care, including longer waits for appointments to see a doctor and an increase in the amount of practices that are closed to new patients.

Many providers are not practicing efficiently: Despite teeming waiting rooms and harried providers, many practices are not operating at optimal capacity. Failure to use effective strategies for scheduling appointments, deploying care teams to distribute workload and making effective use of the time patients spend in a facility prevent greater access to care. It is estimated that with effective strategies, providers could increase patient access by 30% or more without sacrificing care.

Radiation Exposure and the Case for Increased Potassium Iodide Distribution

Exposure to high doses of radiation can occur in various scenarios, including:

- Nuclear power plant reactor meltdown because of an accident or environmental calamity (Fukushima Dai-ichi nuclear power plant)
- Mishandling of nuclear material used in factories, research centers and other facilities
- Act of Terror (dirty bomb)

Iodine-131

Iodine-131 (<sup>131</sup>I) is a byproduct from nuclear fission of Uranium-235 and occurs naturally in extremely minute amounts. Exposure to <sup>131</sup>I can occur through inhalation, ingestion or epidermal contact, and when abundant, leads to adverse health effects, including cancerous outcomes. Radioactive iodine, <sup>131</sup>I, is a primary health agent associated with nuclear accidents, with its plume radius reaching out as far as 300 miles. The nuclear reactor incidents at Three Mile Island (1979), Chernobyl (1986), Fukushima (2011) and Washington State's Hanford Nuclear Reservation (2013) provide impetus and concern over the possible hazards of ionizing radiation to the thyroid from <sup>131</sup>I.

Effects of Nuclear Radiation on the Thyroid Gland

Radiation exposure to the thyroid glands of children increases their risk of developing thyroid cancer later in life. Iodine is aggregated in the thyroid gland. Radioiodine, <sup>131</sup>I, acts similarly to stable iodide except that it releases energy in an effort to become stable. Exposure to radioiodine will thus result in radioactive iodine collecting in the thyroid gland, with the energy released primarily affecting the thyroid. The energy released by <sup>131</sup>I in the thyroid can lead to thyroid tissue damage and local cell death causing thyroid abnormalities or even thyroid cancer. Radioiodine that passes through the body quickly is much less harmful than radioiodine that collects in the thyroid.
